TUESDAY, AUGUST 2. 1737.

91: 656.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from France, with the Paris Letter dated on Wednesday last.

HEY write from Constantinople, that it was resolv'd in the last Divan, to give Battle to the Russians, in case they besiege Oczakow; and that upon Advice that the Fleet which the Russians have at Afoph, intends to go to the Black Sea, several Sultanas and Gallies have been sent from Constantinople, to be stationed at the Entrance of the Borysthenes, to stop up their Passage.

'Tis said, that as soon as the Declaration of the War was published against the Turks, Count Philippi decamp'd, with Part of the Army, and invested Niſſia; and that all the Plenipotentiaries who were on the Road for Niſſia, have received Orders not to go thither: That General Bonneval is intrench'd with 20,000 Turks at Widin; and that the Russians having got the Start of the Turks by a Day and half's Journey, have formed the Siege of Oczakow.

The Fire that happened lately at Moscow, is said to have lasted two Days; that above 2000 Persons perished in it, and above 100,000 are quite ruined by it, and forced to lie in the open Fields.

Letters of the 13th ult. O. S. from Genoa say, they have received Advice from Corsica, that the Rebels had demanded a Suspension of Arms to finish their Harvest, of which they promise to pay one Tenth to the Bishops, and to let the Genoese gather in theirs without molestation; but that Rivarola, the Genoese Commissary, and the Governor of Bastia had refused to consent to that Demand. Mean time, a Letter is publish'd, written from Vienna to the Emperor's Consul, wherein he is given to understand, that his Imperial Majesty has resolved, in Concert with France, to maintain the Republick in Possession of the Isle of Corsica, and even to assist the Genoese in case they are attacked.

The Lawsuit depending betwixt the Archbishop of Rheims, and the City and Chapter, is determined in favour of the latter.

Last Wednesday Se'nnight a Fire broke out at the Hotel Dieu at Paris, which by the Violence of the Wind made a great Progress, and presently caught hold of three Rooms, the Ceiling of one of which fell, and kill'd several Persons that came to help extinguish it. For this Purpose all the Engines in the City were play'd, and the Mendicant Fryars were sent for, as well as a Detachment of the Grenadiers, and the Magistrates attended to give the proper Orders; but the Fire continu'd till 10 o'Clock next Morning, when they began to dig out some of the Workmen, who had been bury'd in the Ruins.

Another Letter from Paris brings these farther Particulars of the Fire that happened on the 21st ult. at the Hospital in that City, called the Hotel Dieu, viz.

It broke out at 11 o'Clock at Night in the Laundry, with so much Fury, that the Flames, notwithstanding all the possible Assistance that could be brought, spread into the several Wards with such Violence, that they had scarce Time to remove the Patients into Notre Dame Church. The First President, the Attorney General, the Lieutenant de Police, the Provost des Marchands, and the other Magistrates stay'd there during the 24 Hours that the Fire continued, to give the necessary Orders, as well to the Detachments of the French and Swiss Guards, as to all the Watch. The Mendicant Fryars, and many others of several Orders, did great Service during the whole Time of the Fire, by which three Rooms were entirely confus'd, and a fourth very much damag'd, and several Persons were thereby kill'd and wounded.

There's a very remarkable Suit commenced at Paris, against a Person, relating to a Deed of Trust, no less than 300,000 Livres, out of which he engag'd a simple old Lady by the Appearance of an Alitery, and such Abstinence that he liv'd only on Pulse, which he eat out of Earthen Dishes, and by the like Self-Mortifications; but as soon as he dy'd, and left him posseſ'd of the Money, his Earthen Ware and Pulse were chang'd into Plate,

Good Cheer, and Purchases; but the Heirs of the Testatrix are at Law for the Money.

IRELAND.

Atkone, July 20. Yesterday we had such a terrible Hail-Storm, that we were afraid the Hail-Stones would break thro' the Roofs of the Houses; on the Side that the Wind blew, it did not leave one whole Pane of Glass in the Windows; some of the Hail-Stones were as big as Turkey Eggs, and the smallest as big as a Pidgeon's.

Londonderry, July 15. This Day our Lord Bishop arrived here in good Health, to the great Joy of all the Citizens: The Mayor and all the Members of the Corporation who live in this City, together with the neighbouring Clergy, and many of the principal Inhabitants, went several Miles to meet his Lordship, and were unanimous in paying him all Manner of Respect, notwithstanding the great Disputes at this Time subsisting among the contending Parties in the Corporation.

Reſſcarberry, July 13. The Weather here for these three Months past has been excessive hot and dry, that our Corn is very backward, and some of our Cows have died: Several Acres of good Land were entirely burn'd by Fire, which some Tobacco Smoakers left on the Ground after they had lighted their Pipes; it took such deep Root, that it could not be extinguished for several Days: This happened in several Places, but particularly in the Island of Inane, near Cape Clare. This Day we had constant Rain, which has done vast Service, especially to the Potatoes, the Staple of this Country.

Never was any where known such Quantities of Fish, Pilchards particularly, as are all along this Coast: Last Night were taken in this Bay with a small Net, above 2200 Mairole at one Draught, and if the Net had not hitch'd in a Rock before they could land it, it's thought they would have taken 60,000; in short, (as Fishermen term it) the Sea is alive with Fish.

Those Persons who are concerned in that Trade, and who are very numerous here of late, have great Hopes of acquiring Fortunes by it.

LONDON.

On Sunday Night last about 9 o'Clock, their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales came to St. James's from Hampton Court, and about 11 o'Clock the same Evening, her Highness was safely deliver'd of a Prince; a Messenger was immediately dispatch'd, with an Account thereof to their Majesties at Hampton Court. Her Royal Highness dined in Publick the same Day with their Majesties.

And Yesterday Morning about 4 o'Clock, the Queen, and the Princesses, Amelia and Caroline came to St. James's, and continued with her Royal Highness till 7, and then returned to Hampton Court.

Her Royal Highness is in a fair way of doing well. Yesterday about 11 o'Clock, the Guns in the Park were fired, and in the Evening there were Bonfires, Illuminations, and other publick Demonstrations of Joy throughout the City and Suburbs on this Occasion.

The same Day a Messenger was dispatch'd to the Prince and Princess of Orange.

As was also a Messenger to the Duke of Saxe Gotha, her Royal Highness's Brother, with an Account of her happy Delivery.

Yesterday Mr. Dogget's annual Coat and Badge was rowed for according to Custom, and was won by one John Heaver of Nine Elms.

The same Day one Totterdill, who kept the Two Brewers in Vine Street, near the Horse-Ferry, Westminster, was, after an Examination of Witnesses for 4 Hours, committed to Newgate by Justice Manley, for the Murder of his Wife, by dragging her down Stairs, and stamping upon her in such a violent Manner, that she died immediately; he afterwards put her into an inner Room on the Floor, and tied up her Jaw to prevent its falling, with an Intent, as supposed, to persuade the Neighbours that she died of sudden Death: 'Tis a House of little Business, and there was no Company at that Time; but one of the Daughters, about 7 Years old, came out and said the Neighbours, my Father has killed my Mother.'

upon which they went in, and he finding himself discovered, attempted to make his Escape, but was secured; and when he was before the Justice, what he said was, Don't ask me any Questions, if she is dead, I shall be hang'd.

We hear from Rochester, that Margaret Wickes, the Maid, was indicted at the Assizes there for drowning of Lydia Fagg, an Infant of 19 Months old, the only Child of Mr. Thomas Fagg, a Gentleman of Dover, and found Guilty of Murder, the Fact being fully proved agaist her. She had very little to say for herself, and did not behave as becomes a Person under such miserable Circumstances.

PIGRAM on an Accident that lately happen'd to the Craftsman's Printing-Press.

SAD Case in which 'Squire Caleb's Press is,
'Tis the Distress of All Distresses,
'Tis torn to Pieces, and the Types too
Dispers'd, Prognostick dire of Stripes too.
Ah Caleb! hast thou no Discerning?
And cou'dst not take by Franklin Warning?
But, weekly, Factious Fools to tickle,
Bring Hayes, his Slave, into like Pickle.
Come ---- make the worst on't, 'tis but Treason,
A little Squeezing of the Weapon.
Be't not for thy Folly's Fortune vext,
For Common Sense's Turn is next.
